Visitors From Orient Honored In Washington

Dinners and Luncheons Are Given for Japanese and Chinese Missions, Besides Usual Official Affairs

Society Observes Holiday

Mrs. Wallace Will Pass the Summer in Iowa; Mrs. Fall Going to New Mexico

Special Dispatch to The Tribune
WASHINGTON, July 2.—So many foreigners have poured into Washington on official visits since the war, that periods have become known as British week, Italian week, Belgium week and what not, and this week was known as Oriental week. A mission each from the Japanese and Chinese governments came to Washington almost simultaneously, and they have given occasion for a number of interesting affairs. Of course there is always the presentation to the President and the Secretary of State and the trip to Mount Vernon, but these events were interspersed with dinners and luncheons.

The Ambassador of Japan, Baron Shidehara, entertained for Mr. Rokusa-buro, head of the Japanese Diet, who came to return the visit of members of Congress who visited the Orient last year. The Speaker, Mr. Gillett, the Secretary of State, Mr. Hughes, and many Senators and Representatives shared the hospitalities with them. One of the most delightful events of the Japanese program was when the Secretary of the Navy took Baron Shidehara and Mr. Rokusa-buro, to Mount Vernon on the Sylph, visited the tomb of Washington and laid a wreath upon it, and taking the yacht again, enjoyed luncheon on route to Washington. They called on the President just after arriving in the capital, the event being stately and charming, the Blue Room windows opening wide to give a view of the lawn, the Washington monument and the Potomac.

There also were many affairs of unusual dignity and importance for Dr. Chu Chi Chien, one time Minister of Foreign Affairs of China, who liked the capital so well that he has taken a cottage at Chevy Chase for a week to have a more private visit with his three daughters, who are in Washington, two of them students at the Cathedral School. At the Chinese dinner Wednesday night Secretaries Hughes, Weeks, Denby and Hoover were guests.

Army and Navy Club Entertains

Following the suggestion in this reception given by the Metropolitan Club members for the President and Mrs. Harding, the Army and Navy Club gave a reception Monday night in honor of the Secretary of War, Mr. Weeks, and the Secretary of the Navy and Mrs. Denby which quite outlived any affair of the kind before given at the club.

Mrs. Harding was lately directed that a new catalog of the collection of china used in former Administrations and now in cabinets in a room on the second floor of the White House, made. There are pieces of each Administration, dating from George Washington to the present, and the collection is a valuable property.

Of all the treasures, the Dolly Madison gold service, consisting of an oblong mirror in three sections surrounded by a three-inch ornate railing and with several pieces of china and gold compotes, or stands and vases, is the handsomest. Then there is a little hair-covered trunk containing the old silverware used by Thomas Jefferson and other pieces of great historic value. Each Administration has shown some special taste in tableware—or the lack of it—through the history of the residence some things are elegant and others ran to the odd or unique. The little set of bon bon dishes in the form of American flags, bought by Mrs. Cleveland, are still in use, as are the Madison gold service and many other pieces.

The official world of Washington and the executive family have departed the week end. Most of the members of the executive family have gone into seclusion in their own homes. Almost the only big official affair, and no one can deny its importance, was the Washington without officials as guests, was the dinner party which Mrs. James McDonald gave at the Chevy Chase Club Monday night when her son, Arthur Bradley Campbell, a few hours before, was the Ambassador of Russia, and the Minister of the Interior, Cuba and Mhe. de Cespedes. That same day Mrs. Coolidge, wife of the Vice-President, with Mrs. Arthur Capper, Mrs. Albert B. Fall, wife of the Secretary of Interior, and others took luncheon at the Chevy Chase Club as guests of Mrs. C. C. McChord.

Three Secretaries Stay in Capital

The only Cabinet members remaining in town over July 4 are the Secretary of State, the Secretary of Interior and the Secretary of Agriculture. Mrs. Wallace, wife of the latter, will leave Washington Monday evening for Des Moines, Iowa, where she will remain until September. She will probably follow her usual custom of going to Denver, Colo., for a few weeks in July or August. Mrs. Fall, wife of the Secretary of Interior, will soon go to New Mexico to remain for some time.

Secretary of War Weeks, who is fonder of his farm in New Hampshire than of any other place in the world, is passing July 4 there, but will return to Washington in time to meet the President on his return from New Jersey.

The Vice-President and Mrs. Coolidge are looking forward to having their son, John, and Calvin Coolidge, with them some time early in July. They are passing July 4 at Swampscott, Mass., with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Starnes, who will help them celebrate their father's birthday anniversary. The Vice-President has, of course, had his birthday party as a kind of a national affair ever since he was a year old.
